THE KAPIOLANI MATERNITY Home has two rooms to accommodate paying patients. Ladies of moderate means who wish to secure a home on rea-sonable terms, before or during the time of confinement, where the best of food attendance, nursing and medical skill will be provided, will please apply at the Home to Mrs. Miller the Matron, who will attend to admittance, give terms or any other inThe McKinley Bill and the Treaty with Hawaii.

(Washington Star, Jan. 22.) The death of King Kalakaua of Hawaii will in nowise affect the peaceful condition of affairs in that country. Such at least is the opin-ion of Mr. H. A. P. Carter, the Hawaiian minister to this country. In discussing the situation with a Star reporter this afternoon Mr. Carter said: "I can see no reason why the death of the King should give rise to any complications whatever. Princess Liliuokalani, sister of the late king, was the princess regent during the absence of Kalakaua. She was then heiress to the crown, and all that is necessary is for her to proclaim herself queen. Queen Kapiolani is now the queen dowager. Princess Liliuokalani ruled in the absence of the King, and she will simply continue to reign the same as if the king were still alive,

THE M'KINLEY ACT AND THE TARIFF. In the drafting of the McKinley bill for the President's signature by some inadvertence, apparently, the clause usual in tariff bills, stating that the bill should not interfere with the provisions of any treaty then in force with any forign nations was omitted. The President has called the attention of Congress to this matter and bills have been introduced into both houses rectifying the error, but as yet they have not been passed. Mr. Carter spoke quite earnestly on this subject to the Star reporter. "Small countries," said Mr. Carter, "are the most jealous of all in the matter of treaties, for these are their chief protection and safeguard. If the United States breaks faith with us in this matter, where then may we look. The Supreme Court holds, of course, that the laws of Congress are the highest in the land, and overrule all treaties. As a result this defect in the final copy of the tariff bill renders null and void the existing treaty with Hawaii. This has been the cause of great worry to the Hawaiians, not so much on account of its effect upon commercial relations as because it seems as though it were using them in bad faith and were a breach of international comity. "Both houses favor the act remedying the defect in the bill. but as yet nothing has been done, notwithstanding the fact that the President called the attention of Congress to the propriety of such action. There seems to be a general idea that this act establishes entirely new relations with Hawaii instead of simply restoring, as it does, the old ones that were affected by the defect in the McKinley bill. KALAKAUA'S LAST MESSAGE. "This matter undoubtedly clouded the last days of King Kalakaua. The last official communication I had from him was a telegram from San Francisco last Friday, just before the final stupor overcame him. In this telegram he informed me that his health was but indifferent since his return from the south. He then went on to urge that I use influence to have that clause restored to its place in the McKinley bill and told me to ask Mr. Blaine to use his best efforts in getting what in reality every one wanted, but what
